CONTENTS

Preface ix

Acknowledgments xvii

Introduction xix

Housing the Next 100 Million Americans

ONE The Link Between Environmental Regulation and Housing Costs 1

TWO Existing Research 18

A Review of the Literature

THREE Excessive Costs and a Comparison of Historical Changes in Environmental Regulations and Approval Processes 35

FOUR Case Study 45

Washington, DC, Metropolitan Region

FIVE Key Lessons from the Case Study 107

SIX A View from the West 125

Findings from Denver, Tucson, and Dallas
SEVEN  The Benefits of Environmental Regulations and a Summary of Key Findings  165

EIGHT  Assessment, Lessons, and Future Directions  171

Appendix A: Literature Review References  185

Appendix B: Chesapeake Bay Program  191

Appendix C: Outline of Environmental Regulations and Review Processes in Fairfax County, Virginia, and Montgomery County, Maryland  203

Appendix D: Special References for Cost Reduction and Best Development Practices  208

Notes  211

References and Selected Bibliography  217

Index  253